A Message from the Benson Tech Counselors

Parents/Guardians,

Last Spring, the Benson Tech Counseling Department began having discussions with Benson teachers about integrating topics around race into their everyday work with students. As a result of this work, during the month of November, all of our English teachers will be having different grade levels reading chapters of “How to Be An Anti Racist” by Ibram X. Kendi.

By reading this book we are hoping to accomplish the following:

- a) Facilitate an open, honest dialogue about race amongst students and staff
- b) Help to teach foundational concepts and vocabulary about race
- c) Bring about a healthier and safer Benson Tech community

We know this topic can be really difficult to discuss, especially for our BIPOC students and families. We want to let you know there are supports. We have staff who are offering a safe space for our BIPOC students (Boys Empowerment Group, Diversity and Asian American clubs). Also, the Counseling Department and the Wellness Center are available to meet with students individually.

Lastly, we would love for you to join our staff and students in reading this book. There are copies available at Multnomah County Library. If you have any questions/concerns, please feel free to contact your counselor. Thank you for supporting this important discussion.
